"THE AGE FOR LOVE."

The romance and drama of this ultra-modern age, the marriage problems, which all couples encounter—are beautifully and poignantly portrayed in "The Age For Love," which is showing at the Central Theatre at 5.15 and 9.30 p.m. to-day.

Here is a modern picture—undoubtedly the first of its kind—which truly portrays, and entertainingly too, the problems which confronts every modern, intelligent and cultured person.

"The Age For Love," among its other detectable features, brings back to the screen, after more than a year's absence, the superlatively beautiful Billie Dove.

A new leading man, Charles Starrett, made a bid for fame in this picture. His portrayal of the straight forward, handsome, slightly old-fashioned young business man is a gem of acting—and women will want to see more of him.

"The Age For Love" is based on the most popular novel by Ernest Pascal, who adapted his own story for the screen with the aid of Robert Sherwood who is the famous motion picture critic and playwright.

"HONKY TONK"

Lloyd Bacon, director of "Honky Tonk" the Warner Bros. latest talking, singing, Vitaphone production featuring Sophie Tucker, due Wednesday at the Queen's Theatre was born in San Jose, California, 37 years ago. His father was Frank Bacon, author and star of "Lightnin'." His mother was an actress.

He was educated in San Francisco and Santa Clara College, Santa Clara, California. His stage experience began in 1907 when he played the part of the Nubian in Oscar Wilde's "Salome." He had had wide experience in stock and repertory and had done some work in pictures as actor and director.

when in 1918 he joined the navy. After discharge from the service he returned to Hollywood where, in 1921, he became associated with Lloyd Hamilton as his director, after three years going to Sennett, where he directed "Turpin and others." After directing several pictures for Universal he was signed to a long-term contract by Warner Bros. his first achievement being "Broken Hearts of Hollywood." He has since directed productions of "Private Lizzy Murphy," "White Flannels," "The Heart of Maryland," "A Sailor's Sweetheart," "Finger Prints," "Brass Knuckles," "Pay as You Enter" and "Stark Mad."

"HEARTBREAK"

The judges in Vienna were conscientiously searching for the perfect type of native beauty, which fitted in exactly with the needs of the casting office at Fox Studios where they were looking for a leading woman to co-star with Charles Farrell in "Heartbreak," the romantic drama which plays at the King's Theatre beginning next Wednesday. The script called for her to represent the fairest of Austria's daughters, and to portray the role of a countess—an exacting requirement, even in Hollywood.

Finally, the Viennese committee, which included artists and sculptors, agreed that Marie Von Eisler was "the most perfect blonde in Vienna, or anywhere else on the European continent."

Madge Evans like Fraulein Eisler has golden-blond hair. She is half-an-inch shorter and weighs two pounds less. This beauty who recently scored in "Guilty Hands" plays the leading feminine role in "Heartbreak," story of courage and love that could survive tragedy and misunderstanding.

Farrell is said to excel even his performance in "Merely Mary Ann." Hardie Albright, Paul Cavanagh and John Arledge are other featured players. Alfred Werker directed.

TO WIN BY FIVE POINTS

VALLEY SUSTAIN SIXTH DEFEAT IN SERIES OF TEN MATCHES.

The Kowloon Golf Club yesterday registered their sixth win in the series of ten matches played against Happy Valley when they won by 19½ points to 14½ on their own course.

The home club led by 3½ points at the conclusion of the singles matches and consolidated their position in the afternoon by winning a further 1½ points as the result of the foursomes. It was indeed a meritorious victory over very strong opposition.

This is Kowloon's first win on their own course since 1930 when they won handsomely by 18 points. The Valley won at Kowloon in April last year by the exceedingly narrow margin of one point. Yesterday's game was the fifth encounter to take place over the Kowloon course; Kowloon now having won four matches to the Valley's one.

Mr. A. T. Braley, captain of the home club, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the Kowloon Golf Club and remarked on the friendly rivalry and interest taken in the inter-club games with the Valley.

In reply, Mr. A. O. Brawn, on behalf of the Happy Valley team, thanked the Kowloon members for their kind hospitality and congratulated the Kowloon Golf Club on the fine new pavilion that they had had erected. In the course of his remarks Mr. Brawn recalled the days when the K.C.C. played their annual match with the Civil Service Club over the old King's Park Course, and how the younger brigade had now carried on the good work by arranging inter-club matches between Kowloon and the Valley, which were always played in a good sporting spirit.

Two changes were made in the Valley team, A. O. Brawn taking the place of R. C. Law, whilst H. T. Buxton, a K.G.C. member and also a Valley member, took the place of W. G. McLeod. Buxton's place in the Kowloon side was taken by G. E. L. Johnson.

SATURDAY'S GAME

At Caroline Hill on Saturday July 16, 1932, Valley defeated Kowloon University by 15 to 10.

MINDANAO BEAT
SOUTH CHINA.

Narrow Victory By
6 to 5.

SHULLEY'S PITCHING.

[By The Kid.]

In a closely contested game yesterday the South China baseball team went down before the U.S.S. Mindanao combination by 6 to 5, thus suffering their first defeat of the year. The Mindanao played one of the best games they have played so far in Hong Kong, and thanks to the brilliant pitching of Shulley were able to keep the Chinese in check throughout the game.

Shulley held the Chinese to four hits and struck out eight batters. He was in rare form, checking the heavy Chinese sluggers with his curves, which were complete puzzles to the Chinese. Ed. Chang, opposing Shulley, pitched a fair game, allowing the sailors five hits, but ragged fielding at critical moments caused him to lose the game. He fanned four batters and walked one.

The Southerners started the game by tallying twice in the first inning. W. Wong slammed the first pitch for a hit, stole second and later scored when M. Chang hit through short for a single. M. Chang then crossed the plate when Horton fumbled Ed. Chang's drive and later threw him out at first.

The sailors tied the count in the third inning, when they pushed Coulter and Fairly across the plate. The sailors made two hits and the Southerners made three errors to help the sailors score.

Goo's Errors.
The sailors took the lead in the fourth. After two outs, the sailors worked two men on the paths and when Horton hit one to Goo, the latter let the ball drop and in trying to catch Fairly off third, threw the ball into the bleachers, scoring Fairly and Cripe.

The navy boys again scored two runs in the fifth inning, again after two outs, the sailors made three consecutive hits to drive in two runs to sew up the game.

The Chinese tallied once in the sixth inning; Chung worked Shulley for a base on balls and, in stealing second, Charlie Thurman, trying to nab him threw the ball into center-field and Chung galloped home. The Chinese tried to tie the count in the seventh inning but failed to do so by one run. Pau beat out an infield hit and M. Chang received a "life" when Sparks muffed his grounder. On T. Chan's sacrifice Pau and Chang tallied.

Considerable Improvement.
The Mindanao baseball team have improved considerably since their last meeting with South China, and much is expected from them when they play the team from the U.S.S. Sacramento on Wednesday afternoon at Caroline Hill. The Sacramento possesses one of the strongest baseball teams in the U.S.S. fleet, and local fans should witness a really good game when they come out on Wednesday.

VALLEY FOURSOMES

Substantial wins featured the results of the First Round matches in the Foursomes Handicap Competition at Happy Valley played during the week. The sensation was provided by A. Macfarlane and C. T. Thwaites, who beat F. J. de Rome and A. McKellar by one hole. The losers were favoured in many quarters as the ultimate winners.

The match between R. F. Clark and R. M. Wood and Capt. H. V. Baker-Bendfield and J. B. Mackie was left all square at the eighteenth hole, and the players were granted an extension of time to play off again.

Later in the week Capt. H. V. Baker-Bendfield and J. B. Mackie won on the 38th green after two play-offs in one of the closest struggles the competition is likely to produce.

First Round Results.

The following were the results of the First Round:—

G. A. WHITE AND MISS DALZIEL WIN.

K.C.C. Mixed Doubles Handicap Tourney.

G. A. White and Miss O. Dalziel won the Mixed Doubles Handicap Championship at the Kowloon Cricket Club on Saturday when they defeated Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hamby 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

White and Miss Dalziel, who were playing at scratch as against their opponents—6-6, found themselves down 4-1 in the final set, but steady play coupled with individual flashes of brilliance saw them level the match and eventually go out at 7-5 for the set and match.

Playing conditions were very poor on account of the previous rain, but as Mr. and Mrs. Hamby were leaving the Colony yesterday, the match was played during the light showers that fell throughout the afternoon.

White and Miss Dalziel defeated C. J. Teah and Mrs. Blandford on Friday by 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, both pairs playing at scratch.

Character Sketch Of Ellsworth VinesPhysical "Rest" Between
Every Spring

COMPLETELY UNEMOTIONAL

By A. WALLIS MYERS.

London, June 25.

A few drops of rain fell at Wimbledon yesterday, but the weather combined with the players to furnish another cheerful programme; and a large crowd sped up and down stairs to search for view-points or for tea.

The American champion, Ellsworth Vines, was the first to enter the men's last eight. He was joined in that select company by Austin, of England, and Satoh, of Japan. The surviving line was thus sketched right round the globe.

Japan kept Satoh untarnished—his game was always too consistent and too calculating for Timmer—but lost Aoki in the pit which Vines prepared for him. Aoki had his sunny period. His lifting backhand drive, with its deceptive flight, caught Vines in one of his pensive moods, and registered a set, followed by a 3-1 lead. But the Californian could always lift his game to beat off the enemy if he got too impatient.

A break of six games was the champion's retort, and he was never intimidated again. Vines is a mixture of S. H. Smith and McLoughlin, and Wimbledon denizens who remember those pre-war giants will realise the strength of the union, although he has lapses from integrity. On of his secrets, which I noticed in America last year, is to "rest" physically between every spring. These reactions lend a casual and almost an indifferent air to his between-stroke gait; he does not look in the match when he is not playing.

WORTHY SYSTEM

But a server will not see any extraneous gesture or any gallery by-play. He is working to a trustworthy system. His concentration is fixed all the time, and because he is so unemotional the enemy can never tell when a new Vines offensive will start or whether his own offensive, which may have scored a few games, has had any moral effect on this tall and silent man.

Austin was not at his best against Feret, and had to work hard to shake off a shrewd and versatile, if not very hard-hitting, opponent.

Feret had beaten Austin under cover in Paris in March; he was in no way over-awed by the greater reputation. But although the Frenchman's refined game, stubborn, pursued, won him the third set 3-2 down, and could never be trifled with Austin had just enough flowing speed and volleying adroitness to keep him at bay.

AUSTIN'S NEED

One suspects that the Englishman, meeting three "quiet" opponents in succession, has got a little tired of generating his own pace. He is in need of a tiger's match to fan his fires. This he will get on Monday, and if he can add length and speed to a game which lacked it yesterday, his physical condition is excellent for a bold march forward.

Feret, by the way, has improved his volleying. Some of his "chip shots" yesterday were gems—one in particular, that which saved a match ball.

Schmeling May Fight
Larry GainsSharkey Requires Too Much
From London Crowd

RIDING THE HIGH HORSE

There will be no world's heavy-weight championship fight in London this year, as was hoped, with Larry Gains, the Canadian negro, as the challenger. Immediately it was known in London that Jack Sharkey had taken the title from the German, Max Schmeling, in their fight in New York, a challenge was cabled to Sharkey on behalf of Gains.

But it is improbable that Sharkey will box in London. He has refused several other offers to box in Europe, and, as champion, will assess his box-office value at least at £42,000, the sum which Schmeling, as champion, drew from the New York fight. London would never contribute more than a quarter of that amount to see Sharkey in the ring.

BRITISH WOMEN BREAK
ATHLETIC RECORDS.Two World Records Established

London, Saturday. Two world's records were broken during the British women's athletic championships at Stamford Bridge to-day.

Miss Johnson, of the Bolton Harriers, did the 100 Yards in 11 secs. flat, thus beating the previous record of 11 1/5 seconds held by Mlle. Radidbo of France.

The other record was established in the 440 Yards event, when Miss Halstead of Bury covered the distance in 56 4/5 seconds, beating her own previous record of 58 1/5 seconds.

TENNIS.

AMERICAN TEAM FOR AUSTRALIA.Palliative After Davis
Cup Defeat?

SUCCESS OF TILDEN'S TEAM.

A cable message from the manager of the Davis Cup team, Mr. J. Clemenger to the Australian Lawn Tennis Association states that, subject to satisfactory financial arrangements being made, the United States Association is prepared to send to Australia a team consisting of Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, John van Ryn, and Keith Gledhill. The three first-named would be accompanied by their wives.

The suggestion in the message is that the team should leave for Australia following the completion of the championships at Los Angeles in September, play at Honolulu and New Zealand en route, and return about the end of February.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Australian Association held recently it was unanimously decided to accept the terms, and the United States Association has been cabled asking for confirmation of the proposal.

GLADHILL'S INCLUSION.

The news that the United States Lawn Tennis Association will at last fulfil its oft-repeated promise should prove of great interest to players and enthusiasts alike, says Dr. G. H. McElhone.

Three of the four players are Davis Cup representatives Keith Gledhill, the fourth member, is the inter-collegiate champion, and is also Vines's partner in doubles. Vines and Gledhill last year were ranked second to Allison and Van Ryn.

The last team from the United States consisted of S. Hardy, captain, W. T. Tilden, W. M. Johnson, and Watson Washburn. They lifted the Davis Cup from Australia in 1920, in New Zealand, and early in 1921 the team played exhibition matches in Melbourne and Sydney.

The present visit is due to Australia's team playing in the North American zone, and may act as a palliative after her crushing defeat. America is fortunate in having such a wealth of talent both in singles and doubles to visit Australia.

STUDY OF CHAMPION.

Judging from the reports which have appeared from time to time about Vines's methods, Australia's players will have an opportunity of studying the style of a man they may mould their games on with safety. It is something that has been sadly needed for years.

Further, they can compare the methods of Allison and Van Ryn and Vines and Gledhill with their own doubles exponents, and once again they may be able to glean much that should prove beneficial to them.

BRADMAN 180.

Gives Australian XI Victory.

TOUR OF AMERICA.

Vancouver (B.C.), June 24.

A magnificent innings by Don Bradman, who scored 180 out of 338 in two hours, enabled the Australian tourists to avenge their defeat at the Hands of the All Star Mainland team here yesterday.

The visitors winning by 121 runs. The Australians declared at 335 for eight, and the Mainland team who batted fifteen and batted eleven were all out for 217. Soon after the match the Australians left for Toronto, where they will play a two-day match, after which they will go to the United States for further fixtures, and then they will return to Canada to finish their tour.

Britain seems constitutionally incapable of producing a champion of the field, and who is universally recognized as the best and bravest of our modern champions.

The cause, I believe, is not far to seek. We are not making full and proper use of our available talent. Above all we are leaving unexplored the wide range of the field, the business of the field, the important playing fields, and the public parks where tennis is regularly played. Mrs. W. G. Wignall.

Safeguarding the Health of the Colony.

It is gratifying to note that a member of the Sanitary Board, Dr. Li Shu-fan, is drawing official attention to what appears to be a health menace at Kennedy Town. He points out in three questions to be put at the Sanitary Board meeting to-morrow that the drying of slaughtered animal's hair, etc., is being carried out within 200 yards of the Kennedy Town Infectious Disease Hospital and the Kennedy Town Tung Wah Small-pox Hospital. The odour is objectionable, but Dr. Li states a more important point in that flies breed in large numbers. As these flies are possible cholera-carriers—or carriers of other deadly germs, the neighbourhood which includes not only the two Hospitals but also numerous dwelling-houses, is subjected to danger, and it is now for the Sanitary Board to determine whether that exposure is necessary. It is pleasing to note that members are conscious of faults and are alert to ventilate matters for the benefit of the Colony. It cannot be stressed sufficiently that no precautions on health are too severe, and the Medical Officer's caution in regard to the cholera outbreak is commendable. In this hot weather, particular safe measures should be observed, and the authorities should not hesitate to impose any restrictions that may be warranted by existing conditions. It is better that the public should suffer some slight inconvenience than that any risk should be taken. Most residents would welcome an ultra-safe policy, being content to tolerate some discomforts that the health of the Colony may be fully safeguarded. Fuller discussion by the Sanitary Board the Medical authorities and the Legislative Council would probably reveal many faults in the present system, and the insistence of public representatives on these bodies will lead to such discussion. The replies given to the questions of press disposal made at the last meeting of the Sanitary Board were far from satisfactory, and it is desirable that a member should not be able to secure complete and comprehensive information on any such matter. It is to be hoped that the point will be pressed again until it is quite clear that refuse is being collected and disposed of in the most efficient and sanitary manner. Such assurance is lacking at present. There are many other matters of vital importance which could be improved and there is no reason for any official reticence. The question of the cleanliness of the Harbour could be gone into with advantage and there is little question that considerable improvement could be effected, which would result in a much cleaner Harbour. Dumping and drainage are carried out on too large a scale and there is more than a suspicion that the tides carry some of the refuse back to the beaches, Repulse Bay in particular. It is evident that more modern methods could be employed in Hong Kong, and even if expenditure is increased it would be justified by the greater security in the Colony's health and living conditions that would result.

DESTITUTION AMONG
INDIAN STUDENTS.

Experience Hardships
In England.

London, June 23.

Too many Indian students come to England every year, with the result that there are a number of cases of destitution, and some have had to be repatriated. This warning is given in the report on the work of the Education Department of the Office of the High Commissioner for India, London, for the year ended September 30 last.

"It is perhaps desirable," the report states, "and indeed, sometimes essential, for the picked men—those who have already done good work at their own universities—to leave in order to have the benefit of Western scholarship and research. For such men there is always a ready welcome. But it is especially to be hoped that a large proportion of the younger students will come to realise that they can best serve India and themselves if they continue to stay in their own country and to seek in their own universities the training and opportunities which will best equip them for a successful career."

The number of Indian students at universities and colleges in Great Britain during the season 1930-31 was 1,891. Twelve were repatriated.

ENTERTAINMENT OF SERVICE MEN.

Work Of "Cheero Club."

MANY FUNCTIONS ORGANISED.

Since the closing of the "Cheero Club," the greater part of the work of organising entertainments and recreational facilities for Service Men, has devolved upon the Naval, Military and Air Force Section of the European Y.M.C.A., which has adapted itself admirably to meet the heavier demand.

In addition to the more spacious premises allotted to this Section in the European Y.M.C.A. building, the Cheero Club Library has been transferred to Kowloon, where this collection of some 700 volumes is available daily to men of the Services. The new Swimming Bath is also placed at the men's disposal at certain hours and is in great demand.

The general organisation of this Section is in the hands of an enthusiastic Committee, under the Chairmanship of Mr. F. H. Crapnell, Mr. A. W. Ingram as Secretary, and is inaugurating a regular programme of functions, to be introduced gradually as the Winter season approaches. At present, Whist Drives are held on alternate Mondays, at which the attendance, averaging 120 players, speak well for the future success of this Committee's activities.

To-night a new note is being struck in the holding of an open-air Dance on the Tennis Courts, behind the Y.M.C.A. building, which area is being specially decorated and illuminated for the occasion. Dancing will continue from 8.30 p.m. until midnight, the music being rendered by Ronnie True's inimitable "Cheero Band." Tickets will be on sale at the door, at $1 each, including refreshments. A large attendance is anticipated, and all Service Men are cordially invited.

BIBBY LINER SOLD TO JAPAN.

Scrapped After 30
Years' Service.

FAMOUS CABINS

After distinguished service for 30 years, the Bibby liner Warwickshire has now been handed over to the Japanese buyers for breaking up. Built in 1902, she was the first ship to be fitted with the Bibby patent tandem cabin, which, along with many other advantages, provides that every cabin is in contact with the outside light and air, and that every berth is placed fore and aft.

This system immediately became popular, and licences were taken out by principal shipbuilders, while individual ships made their own arrangements with the patentees.

At present every first-class ship engaged in tropical voyages, and many others, have adopted this style of arrangement, which has practically done away with the old-fashioned inside stuffy cabins.

From 1902 to 1927 the Warwickshire ran in the Bibby fortnightly passenger service, with the exception of the time in which she was requisitioned for war service. In 1917 she carried 2,700 troops between East Africa and Karachi, and during her homeward voyage, when on her ordinary service, she was torpedoed in the Mediterranean, but managed to proceed under her own steam to Bizerta, where she landed safely her crew and passengers.

After having temporary repairs at Bizerta she was fully repaired at home and re-engaged in the regular service, but in April, 1919, she was again requisitioned to repatriate Australian troops and made two voyages carrying 2,500 officers and men. In 1927 she was withdrawn from the passenger service to make way for a new liner, and was converted into a cargo ship, supplementary to the Bibby ordinary service, in which capacity she continued, until she has now been sold to the Japanese.

An unknown Chinese child which was found abandoned at Tung Mei Road, Shamshuipo, was removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital on Saturday.

MR. R. D. DAVIES
IS MOURNED.

Singapore Editor
Passes Away.

MANY YEARS OF SERVICE.

The "Singapore Free Press" announces the death of Mr. Reginald Downing Davies, managing-director and editor of the paper.

Mr. Davies died from pneumonia, which followed a chill caught a few days earlier when he was making steady progress towards recovery from the illness which had necessitated his absence from business since the middle of March. So satisfactory had that recovery been that arrangements had been made for Mr. Davies to leave for England on retirement with Mrs. Davies and their second daughter, who came out to Singapore a month ago.

Mr. Davies, who was 54 years of age, came to Singapore in 1902, and in serving the "Singapore Free Press," first in the capacity of a reporter and later as managing director and editor, for a period of thirty years he maintained the tradition of long and unsparing service to the paper established by his predecessors, the late Major W. G. St. Clair (who retired in 1916 after being editor for 29 years) and Mr. Walter Makepeace (who, first as assistant editor, and later as editor and managing director) worked for the "Free Press" for 39 years.

BOYCOTT OF BRITISH GOODS
IN DUBLIN.

Dispute Reviewed.

The following statement in reference to the negotiations between the British Government and the Irish Free State has been issued:

The dispute over the land annuities which has given rise to the present trouble related to the payments which the Irish Free State Government agreed to make some years ago and which have hitherto been regularly made year by year with the sanction of the Irish Free State Parliament.

The offer of arbitration came from the British Government and was formally made to Mr. De Valera on June 10 last. The Free State Government raised difficulties as to how any Court of arbitration could be constituted. Even on that, however, they have come to no close negotiations with London.

At the last minute a proposal was put up to the British Government that the facts should be enquired into by a body of four, two to be appointed by the Irish Free State Government and two by the British Government. The novelty of this proposal lay in the fact that it was not proposed that the decision of this body should have any binding effect. When the four had drafted their report or reports then the Governments were to negotiate and no proposal was made for the means of coming to an agreement should the negotiations fail. In the meantime relations between the two Governments would have been deteriorating.

Britain's Suggestion.

The British Government anxious for a settlement of the annuities question, were willing for arbitration by a specially set up body or for further discussion as to whether direct contact could be maintained between the Government on a means of finding a settlement of the financial questions at issue. They proposed that the present situation of deadlock should be treated in the way in which money disputes are often treated in law courts, that is that the payments contested should be made pending a decision, with the understanding that even these payments should be subject to any ultimate settlement.

They proposed that upon an agreement as to the terms of reference for arbitration or as to further discussion, and upon the payment of the money involved all present action should be suspended, including the collection of revenue by way of special customs, and that remains their position. They are prepared, as soon as they receive communication from the Irish Free State Government, to take effect to enter at once into such an agreement, and this dispute will be ended. COMMUNIST HORDES IN KWANGTUNG

INVASION ALARMS CANTON BY SUDDENNESS

NAMHUNG UNDER SEIGE

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Canton, Yesterday.

A menacing situation has arisen in Canton. This time it is from the Red armies and they are causing sleepless nights among the Canton camps. For some time past, the public has been fed with news from the official sources to the effect that all was quiet over the Kiangsi border and that the Cantonese troops were keeping the enemy in check at Tayu, Feng Hsin, and other towns adjacent to Kwangtung.

If therefore came like a bomb-shell when the report from Namhung last week said that the Reds were besieging that town, a very strategic point, as it opens the way to Siu Kwan, the terminus of the Canton-Hankow Railway, 60 miles south.

Enquiries at Army Headquarters elicited an enigmatical reply that the situation to the north was dangerous, but not alarming.

Local papers were muzzled and there was little news of the Communist situation. But reports began to arrive through private sources, disclosing that Kwangtung was unquestionably in danger.

The sudden appearance of the Reds in Kwangtung was made possible by General Chan Ching-chak's quarrel with Admiral Chan Chak over the question of who was to be Chung-chi-wei (Commander-in-Chief) of the province. While the former was concentrating his troops at Pak-hoi to uphold the dignity of his title, the Reds quietly slipped into Kwangtung through the Namhung Pass and later through Yin Wa, 60 li north of Namhung, and Hing Wo, on the East River.

Namhung Lost and Won. It was at the beginning of this month that the Reds began to move towards the Kwangtung border in three columns. Their number was estimated at close on 40,000 well armed men. To safeguard their rear, they cut the line of communication between Tayu and Hsing Feng, which were defended by the Cantonese. They then proceeded to lay siege to the cities, which fell after several days of hand-to-hand fighting.

The commander of Hsing Feng, Gen. Chang Mei-hsing, breaking through the siege, was able to get away with the remnant of his division. But his way to Namhung was fiercely obstructed. The enemy clung tenaciously to his rear. On July 9 the Reds appeared before Namhung. By this time Gen. Chang had been joined by Gen. Chan Tsang with his brigade, and together they defended the city against the determined onslaughts of the Reds. On July 12, by sheer force of numbers, the Reds broke into the city, and street fighting commenced. There was great carnage.

In the evening the defenders evacuated the city.

By July 14, re-enforcements had arrived from Siukwang, and the city was recaptured, while the Reds were driven 60 li back towards Kiangsi. In this conflict, the Reds are reported to have lost over 5,000 men, and the Cantonese some 3,500 dead and wounded.

Ying Fa is Deluged.

While fighting was progressing at Namhung, report was received that the Reds were pouring from Kiangsi and were advancing towards Ying Fa, a town west of Namhung, and about 30 miles from Siukwang. It was plain to the Cantonese generals that the Reds were making another drive towards the Canton-Hankow Railway. Troops were rushed up from Canton to Siukwang, and trenches were thrown up outside the latter city. An unconfirmed report arriving to-day states that the city came near to being captured by an advance body of the Reds who got within 20 li of it, but they were finally driven back with the Cantonese following on their heels.

This happened three days ago. Simultaneously with the march of the troops into Namhung, another body of the Reds penetrated from Nam Tsan into the Eastern border of Kwangtung, marching in the direction of Ping Wei, a town on the East River. Their number is estimated at about 10,000. Troops from the districts of Ng Wa, Mei Yuan and adjoining towns have been despatched to block the enemy, who are now about 30 li from Ping Wo. The fall of Ping Wo would produce serious repercussions in the East River districts, where Communism finds a fruitful soil among the peasants in Hoi-feng and even in Chichow and neighbouring districts.

Troops to the Rescue. The Nanking Government is hurrying troops to the rescue of Kwangtung. Part of Gen. Chen Chien's division has arrived near Namhung and is now co-operating with the Cantonese.

Marshal Li Tsung-ying has despatched one division of his Kwangsi troops to Siukwan, while a second division will leave Wuchow as soon as transportation has been arranged. The number of Cantonese troops on the present struggle, according to military circles, is about 30 brigades, each containing 1,500 men, totalling 45,000 men. On the other hand, the Reds are reported to exceed 100,000, of which number only 60,000 are equipped with rifles and ammunition. It is a mystery how they have been able to secure the arms. Some reports have it that they have been supplied from Russia. At present, they have four aeroplanes, which are not mounted with machine guns, but they are doing valuable work as scouting machines. Two days ago, one machine was shot down and the pilot killed.

The invading forces are a more humane and liberal force in the treatment of captured towns than predecessors.

CIVIL WAR THREAT FROM CANTON

Leaders Disapprove
Of Sino-Japanese Pact.

MOVE AGAINST CHIANG
KAI-SHEK

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Canton, Saturday. That another civil war is brewing, its primary object the ousting of President Chiang Kai-shek from office, is the startling information gleaned from a source that is intimately associated with the principal politicians in South China. It appears that leaders in various parts of China are lined up against the leader of the Kuomintang Party, because they are dissatisfied with the result of the Shanghai settlement with the Japanese, with the apparent "laissez-faire" attitude of the Nanking Government in the Manchurian affair and, in general, with the despotic handling of national affairs by Gen. Chiang.

The same source discloses that the centre of this movement is located not far from Canton. At this place the leading spirits are convening together to devise ways and means to further their plan. Already representatives from different parts of China have arrived here or are on their way. The movement, according to information, promises to be of large dimensions.

LAUNCH SUNK AFTER COLLISION.

European Thrown Into Harbour.

PICKED UP WITH CREW.

A motor boat, Moonraker No. 3, carrying a European and two Chinese was involved in a collision with a steam launch in the harbour yesterday morning and sank at once. The passengers were picked up by the launch crew, none the worse for their enforced dip.

The motor boat was engaged by the European at Blake Pier to take him to the S.S. Lyeemun about 10 o'clock, and when in the vicinity of the O.S.K. wharf, collided with a Chinese-owned steam launch. The motor boat was badly holed and sank almost immediately.

The sunken vessel was salvaged successfully in the afternoon, and taken to Yau-mai to undergo repairs.

FLIES BREED NEAR HOSPITAL.

Dr. Li Sees Serious
Health Menace.

QUESTION OF SANITATION.

Will Urge Remedial
Action.

Calling attention indirectly, to what he believes is a serious menace to the good health of the Colony, Dr. Li Shu-fan will direct a number of questions to the head of the department at the next meeting of the Sanitary Board, on Tuesday, July 19.

They are as follows:— (i) Is the Head of the Sanitary Department aware that the drying of slaughtered animal's hair, etc., is being done on certain pieces of land within a radius of 200 yards from the Kennedy Town Infectious Disease Hospital and the Kennedy Town Tung Wah Small-pox Hospital?

(ii) Is the Head of the Sanitary Department aware that, as the result of such drying, flies breed in large numbers, and that such flies and the odour emitted from the drying beds are most objectionable to dwellers in the vicinity?

(iii) In view of the facts that flies are well-known possible cholera-carriers, and in view of the proximity of numerous dwelling houses to the Kennedy Town Infectious Disease Hospital which at present has a comparatively large number of cholera in-patients, will the Head of the Sanitary Department consider what practical steps the Sanitary Department could take to ameliorate the existing conditions, bearing in mind the importance of the removal or mitigation of the flies nuisance within the immediate vicinity to the Hospitals mentioned?

SHANGHAI PRISONS ARE OVERCROWDED

ADMINISTRATIVE CHANGES

COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED TO DEAL WITH PROSTITUTION.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The serious overcrowding of the International Settlement Gaol is creating grave concern here. Over 7,000 prisoners in the Ward Road Prison, represent the saturation point of congestion.

In consequence, important changes are foreshadowed in the administration of Shanghai Settlement prisons. Captain Martin, Extra Police Commissioner, will become Governor of Gaols on his return from long leave.

The Council have also decided to approach the Consular Body with a view to persuading the Chinese authorities to build a separate prison for accommodating those sentenced by the Shanghai District Court.

The Council has decided, also, to appoint a small joint committee to consider the question of prostitution. Street soliciting has latterly become very pronounced.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE PUBLIC SERVICE.

Wide Territory Is Well Served.

MATERNITY CASES.

Adventurous Journey Of Mercy Far Afield.

The St. John Ambulance Service is doing a humane and valuable work in the New Territories and stories of the adventures of the nurses of the organisation are related in the following report.

"On Tuesday last a telephone message was sent from Shatouk by the St. John nurse, asking for immediate medical assistance for a maternity case at Sha Tel, the patient being too critically ill to be moved by ambulance. The villagers only notified the nurse when their primitive methods had failed. It is not unusual for broken crockery or even iron hooks to be employed in these outlying districts near the border.

"Fortunately the services of a well-known obstetrician were obtained, and, with two qualified nurses who sacrificed their 'off duty' day, he answered the call.

"After 1 1/2 hours' ride by car and a long walk across paddy fields, passing small hamlets where villagers gave us a curious stare, and then returned to their 'Kwok Wah,' we came to a village resting at the foot of a small mountain. "Picture a room, windowless, a piece of dirty canvas for a mosquito net, and everything as black as night. There was a faint moaning. The heat was terrible.

"The village women who crowded the house, either out of curiosity, or to lend a helping hand, were jockeyed outside, and we heard a voice giving a homely on what to do and what not to do, and where to find the St. John nurses when wanted, and to waste no time.

Worked By Candles.

"Inside, the doctor was at work, with only candles for light. We were informed that the baby was dead, but efforts would be made to save the life of the mother. Thanks to the doctor and his assistants this was done.

"A very pathetic feature of the case was that the lost baby was a boy. Six other children were girls. The grandmother, a little frail old woman, sobbed bitterly, but brightened later when we told her that the mother was alright, and she would hope for a grandson 'next time.'

"Thinking our work was finished we prepared to return, but women with babies appeared like magic, asking for advice and treatment. They were notified as to where to find the St. John nurse. She had had 8 maternity cases in the week in the same district. In addition to 40 daily cases for general treatment.

"Thursday saw another emergency call, this time to Sanbo, near Kam Tin. Dr. Y. Y. Tang, very kindly went out, and found an operative case which was brought to the Kwong Wah Hospital, and a severe case of typhoid fever, the patient lying in bed, her legs rigid and her face distorted by pain. She was brought to hospital, the doctor being 'on duty' and a nurse, Mr. Chu Ching-lan, former General of Kirin and Governor of Kwangtung, who passed through Hong Kong last week, with two other prominent Shanghai Chinese, to promote the Anti-Civil War Alliance, returned from Canton on Saturday on the S.S. Fatsan.

stick in the mud, and we had to be 'dug out' by coolies.

Doctor Misses Boat.

"On Friday, July 15 there was still another emergency call, this time from Cheung Chau, a maternity case. The Corps Secretary, being the only one available, got into communication with a doctor who offered his services. But the doctor arrived at the Cheung Chau wharf to see the boat sailing. The Corps Secretary, who had been anxiously waiting, resolved to go alone. Fortune was with her, as she was able to obtain the services of Dr. Cadbury, who was on board. "At Cheung Chau they were met by one of the nurses, who took them to a matbed where the patient a boatwoman lay. Nothing could be done there, so the patient was sent to Hong Kong in charge of one of the St. John nurses who had had special instructions from Dr. Cadbury.

"On arrival at the Tsan Yuk Hospital, the woman was attended by Dr. Lam, who has been of great help on other occasions. Mother and baby, (a boy, much to the delight of the two relatives who were anxiously waiting) survived.

"So our work goes on, day and night. Even our voluntary helpers get no rest. But we love the work. The public will give assistance, financial and material.

"Reports from South Africa, India and New Zealand speak of St. John Ambulance Stations, hospitals, clinics, welfare centres, all supported by the public in general. Here in Hong Kong, it is left to a few philanthropists to keep the 'machine of humanity' running."

Sd. R. LANGLEY,
Corps Secretary.

Pay Visit To Macao.

Mr. Chu Ching-lan, former General of Kirin and Governor of Kwangtung, who passed through Hong Kong last week, with two other prominent Shanghai Chinese, to promote the Anti-Civil War Alliance, returned from Canton on Saturday on the S.S. Fatsan.

Together with his compatriots, Mr. Chen Lip-ting and Mr. Tsar Liang-chao, Mr. Chu completed his negotiations with the Canton officials and the various commercial organisations in that city in two days. They left for Macao on Sunday at the invitation of prominent business there.

The King's Coronation Day

An Onlooker's Memories Of Edward VII.

PAGEANT OF 30 YEARS AGO

June 22 was the anniversary of the Coronation of his Majesty King George V. The occasion recalls another Coronation fixed for June, still fresh in memory, though it fell thirty years ago. But the grave illness of King Edward VII. supervened, and all the elaborate preparations had to be postponed, writes G. Cornwallis West in the "Daily Telegraph."

The question, "For how long?" was on the lips of all his subjects. It was not until the end of Ascot week in 1902—an event which the King, ardent race-goers as he was, had failed to attend—that the public woke up to the fact that something must be seriously wrong. In the Royal Enclosure it had been obvious that members of the Royal Household had been strictly enjoined to make little of the King's illness; and they carried out their instructions well, as none of his friends, except one or two of the most intimate, had any idea that he was seriously ill.

When the news really did leak out, the wildest rumours were current at every street corner. Men and women shook their heads and recounted how a gipsy had prophesied that King Edward would never be crowned, and it was said that even he himself had expressed the same belief.

Sympathy with the Royal invalid was accentuated by the fact that for so many years, though taking the keenest interest in his country's welfare, he had been allowed to take no practical part in its administration, and that all the excellent diplomatic work which he had accomplished during the last decade of his mother's reign had had to be done sub rosa.

"Out of Danger" Bulletin. The crowds outside Buckingham Palace gazing at the bulletins after King Edward's operation can only be compared with those of two years ago, during the serious illness of King George. However, much a certain section of the community may have criticised King Edward as Prince of Wales during the late 'eighties, there was no more popular personality in the country at the time of his accession.

His cheerfulness, his bonhomie, his marvellous tact and graciousness endeared him to all. The whole country breathed a sigh of relief when a bulletin announcing that his Majesty was "out of danger" appeared on the board, and when, later, the actual date of the Coronation was announced.

As regards this event itself, during the spring it had been discussed at every dinner-table in London. Ridiculous stories were going round, to the effect that, as there had not been a Coronation for sixty years, no one, from the Earl Marshal (the Duke of Norfolk) down to the junior clerk of the College of Heralds, had the remotest idea of the proper procedure. This was, of course, absolute nonsense.

The ceremony of the Coronation of the Kings of England goes back many centuries; there has been but little alteration in those sacred rites which consecrate the Sovereign. What marked the difference between the Coronation of King Edward and of Queen Victoria, after so long a lapse of time, was the advent of representatives from all parts of the great Empire which had been consolidated during the previous sixty years.

During that period many social reforms had been enacted; democracy had found its feet and was firmly planted; but the link between the people and the Crown was stronger than ever.

August 9 was the date eventually fixed for the Coronation. I was fortunate enough to be sent a ticket of admission to a box which was reserved for his Majesty's personal friends. It included many social hostesses of the day, who although they had no official status, had often entertained the King. Ladies such as Mrs. Glynne, Mrs. Maguire, and the Mrs. Mrs. George Gore were there, to name a few, who had entertained the King during his childhood. Mrs. Sarah Gore

The box itself was right over the altar, and commanded a wonderful view of the whole traditionally interesting ceremony. When it is remembered that over 7,000 people had to be accommodated by 11.30, it is not surprising that we were commanded to take our places at 9.30 a.m. The two hours' interval passed rapidly. The scene before us was a pageant of indescribable splendour, and the mind was dazzled, by identifying the innumerable notabilities from all parts of the world, as they entered, in their brilliant uniforms or robes, and took their allotted places.

Entry Into The Abbey. Not for a moment was the solemnity of the occasion forgotten. If there was any conversation it could only be compared with the drone of distant bees. As the hour of 11.30 approached we could hear the booming of the guns in Hyde Park and the cheers of the excited crowds, for never was a monarch more enthusiastically received as he proceeded to his Coronation. It was as if one and all raised their voices in thanksgiving for his recovery.

Then we heard the blare of the trumpets and the music of the Abbey bells. Within the Abbey, not another sound was heard as Queen Alexandra, looking lovely, entered and passed to her seat. Shortly afterwards came the King, and it seemed that an involuntary sigh of relief went up as everyone realised his complete restoration to health.

Bowing slightly to right and left, he advanced with a firm step to the Chair of Recognition, amidst the cries of the Westminster boys: "Vivat, Vivat! Vivat Rex Edwardus!" Then the service began. Those who were in the immediate vicinity could clearly discern the extreme feebleness of the aged Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Temple. Indeed, the King's responses to the Coronation oath were uttered in a much clearer and louder voice than the words which fell from the lips of the Archbishop.

The service was a long one, in spite of abbreviations on account of the King's health, and no one could fail to be impressed by the antiquity of the rites. When the final act came, of the Imperial Crown being placed on the King's head, the trumpets sounded again, the bells pealed out, the guns boomed from the Tower, and from all parts of the Abbey came the cry of homage, "God save the King!"

There followed a most pathetic incident. The aged Archbishop, being the senior member of the First Estate, knelt before the King to do homage; when he endeavoured to rise to kiss his Majesty's cheek he appeared to falter, and it was only when the King himself leaned forward to his assistance that, with the additional aid of the Bishop of Winchester, he was able to rise.

It was the King who made a signal that the venerable prelate should be assisted to a chair, where it is said, he indignantly denied that there was any likelihood of his fainting and maintained that it was "not his head but his legs" which had failed him.

King George Does Homage. When the King appeared (King George V.) advanced to do homage. It was not a question of monarch and subject, but of father and son, and was a most moving episode. As with arms outstretched in a gesture of infinite tenderness, King Edward embraced his only surviving son in the presence of his people.

Next came the Coronation of the Queen, who was supported by Lord Buckhurst, all of whom had been to the Coronation of King Edward VII. in 1902. The ceremony was a most impressive one, and the people in the Abbey were all the more so, as the King and Queen were both so young.

PERCY ALLIS WINS CHAMPIONSHIP.

Wizard Golf In Third Round Breaks Record.

PADGHAM RUNNER-UP.

Porthcawl, Wales, Saturday.

Percy Allis (Beaconsfield), after breaking the course record with a 65 in the third round, won the Porthcawl Professional Golf Championship here to-day when he returned cards for an aggregate score of 278.

Arthur Padgham (Royal Ash-down Forest) was second with 279 whilst Henry Cotton returned 281 to come third.

During the third round the course was broken on three occasions. Archie Compton and Henry Cotton returned cards for 66 to break the existing course record, but their triumph was short-lived for Percy Allis brought in a card for 65 as the result of superb golf.

It was in the third round that the Championship was won, Allis robbing Padgham of a substantial lead.—Reuter.

The Chinese Bathing Club's second swimming gala of the season was held at North Point on Saturday night before a huge crowd of members, and again proved a decided success. There were twelve events on a card which included many novelty races.

The feature of the evening was the Water Polo game between the Chinese Bathing Club and the Royal Navy and which resulted in a win for the Chinese by 4 goals to 1.

Lawn Tennis

Rain interfered with the lawn tennis programme on Saturday, only two games, one on each side of the harbour being played.

At King's Park, the Y.M.C.A. entertained and defeated their next-door neighbours, the Filipino Tennis Club, while at Sookunpo, the Army Tennis Club lost to the Radio Sports Club by 6½ sets to 2½.

J. J. Ferguson and J. M. Wilson (Y.M.C.A.) were in irresistible form and won all three of their encounters for the Y.M.C.A. and were in a large measure responsible for the "Y" victory.

At Sookunpo, the Radio Sports Club sprung a surprise on the Army Tennis Club and ran out winners by 6½ sets to 2½. Landau and Parkinson secured the only two victories registered by the A.T.C., Mitchell and Norris gaining the other half point at the expense of K. Singh and Cowan.

FIELD MARSHAL TO LIE IN ABBEY.

Viscount Plumer To Be Buried On Wednesday.

London, To-day.
The War Office announces to-day that the burial, as well as the funeral service for late Field Marshal Viscount Plumer, who died on Saturday, will take place at Westminster Abbey on Wednesday morning.
Lord Plumer was one of Britain's most distinguished soldiers and did outstanding work in the Great War.
—British Wireless Service.

MORTGAGE PROVISOS IN DISPUTE.

mortgages were deposited with them as security. A deed to this effect was executed on December 5, and on the same day, the woman notified the Bank that she had appointed Shao as her agent.

Note For $25,000.
On the next day, Pittendright and Shao jointly signed a promissory note to the Bank for $25,000, to which the liabilities of the mortgagor were limited under the first cover.

An important factor was that on the same day, Pittendright, who had no funds in the Bank, drew a cheque for $15,700, not only signed by him, but by Shao.

The facility granted to Pittend-right by the Bank, was the honouring of cheques drawn on an overdrawn account. Cheques of that nature were drawn between December 6, 1928 and February 26, 1929, fifteen cheques in all.

Large Overdraft.
On November 23, 1929, two and a half months before the sale was put through by the Bank, Pittendright's overdraft stood at $20,574.

In spite of warnings, nothing was done in the matter, and the Bank set about exercising their full power to sell. On February 4 or 5, Messrs. Deacons, the Bank's collectors, sent three well-known Chinese property brokers into the market to obtain offers for the property. The highest offer received was $24,000.

On February 7, a letter from Messrs. Deacons to Shao informed him of the matter, and intimated that unless the demand was paid by noon on February 8, the offer of $24,000 for the Ko Shing Street property would be closed.

Nothing was done and the sale
took place.

Ready To Pay.
The first demand made to Mrs.
Chu, by the Bank, took place the day before the sale was completed, on February 13. The letter called upon her to pay only the interest that was due on the overdraft. No reply was sent.

The purchaser of the house gave the tenants notice to quit immediately after the sale.

A letter came from Messrs. George K. Hall Brutton, later to say that Mrs. Chu was prepared to pay all the money both interest and principal. Messrs. Deacons sent a reply forthwith, that the offer was too late.

The objection made by Mr. Hall
Brutton was that his client had not been asked to pay the principal amount.

The case is continuing.

Mme. Tsai Presents Students' Prizes

the subscription of $236.40 to the Tung Wah Hospital in aid of the Flood Relief Fund," he added.

Pays a Tribute.
Mr. Ching paid a high tribute to Madame Tsai.

"It gives me great pleasure to welcome here this morning Madame Tsai Ting-kai. Her presence alone shows how great an interest she is taking in the welfare of the students of Hong Kong. Her consent to distribute the prizes for us gives great encouragement to the hard-working students who have tried their best to gain knowledge for themselves and to prepare themselves to be useful and worthy citizens. We are unfortunate in not being able to welcome General Tsai Ting-kai here.

He left the Colony on important business three days ago. However,
I can assure you that both General and Madame Tsai Ting-kai are extremely keen in helping the students along and are looking eagerly forward to a future when all the young generation will become well-educated, brave, strong, unselfish and patriotic and loyal to their own country."

Mr. Ma Man-fai spoke on behalf of Madame Tsai and expressed thanks for all that had been done by the Chinese people for the 19th Route Army during the trouble at Shanghai.

"Students of to-day will be masters of to-morrow," he said in part.
"Students must remember two responsibilities. One is for the present, to study to better yourselves;
and the other is, with your knowledge, to serve the country in the future."

The following is the prize list:—

Class 2.

which it was alleged that there had been irregularities in the conduct of charities obtained through her Angelus Temple. The allegations were published under the sub-title, "Aimee Gospel Gold Digger."

Mrs. Hutton's career has been colourful. She won her greatest notoriety when, after having been reported "missing" and having been the object of a State-wide search, it was alleged that she had run away with a young radio operator. Such charges, while never proved, cost an unusual light of scandal upon the fiery evangelist whose following was counted in tens of thousands.

"Sister Aimee's" Notoriety.

Mrs. Hutton, known to most Americans as "Sister Aimee," and acknowledged as one of the greatest publicity experts of all time, rivalling even Mahatma Gandhi, has been the centre of many stormy scenes,
which include Court cases, matrimonial and domestic troubles, charges that she turned religion to material profit, and Court actions.

She has been married four times, and the accusation has been made that her last two marriages were made for publicity purposes. Mrs. Hutton was openly snubbed by Harvard University officials last year when she was refused permission to enter the College to deliver an address.
